COMMONER ON PHONE

Confers With Mack at Chicago—
Spending Cool Days Writing
Important Speeches

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 7.—Candidate Bryan and National Chairman Norman E. Mack at Chicago were in conference today over the long distance telephone. While the subjects discussed were not disclosed by Bryan, it is understood the conversation had to do, among three things, with the refusal of the Western Traffic association to make special rates to Lincoln upon the occasion of the notification Aug. 12.

Although the action will probably prevent people from coming to Lincoln to witness the event the local committee of arrangements is going steadily on with preparations for the event.

Busy Writing Speeches.

Bryan is availing himself of the cool weather by utilizing every spare moment of his time in preparing several sets of speeches which he will make this month. The one on the tariff at Des Moines is expected to be an exhaustive treatment of the subject and will be one of the most important of his utterances during the campaign.

To Learn Party's Sentiments.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 7.—As a result of the visit to Bryan yesterday of Senator Taylor of Tennessee, the democratic national committee, with the concurrence of Bryan, will soon enter upon a most elaborate plan for ascertaining the sentiments of the country toward their standard bearers.

This plan contemplates the formation of a national democratic club with state and country clubs as subsidiaries, whose duty it will be to report to the central organization data favorable or unfavorable to the national ticket. It is proposed also that these clubs shall poll the voters of the United States and to every section where the feeling is adverse to the democratic candidates to send literature and speakers. Aside from this most important announcement from Fairview yesterday it was the decision of Bryan to make an extended speech on the tariff question at Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 21, and to spend the three following days in Chicago in consultation with Chairman Mack and other party leaders over the plan of the campaign.

Replies to Van Cleave.

Last night Bryan gave out for publication his reply to a circular letter sent to the business men of the country by James W. Van Cleave, president of the Manufacturers' association, urging them to go to the polls in November and "bury Bryan and Bryanism forever."

Bryan accuses Van Cleave of having a narrow idea of what constitutes the business man and enters into an elaborate defense of his policies.

Bryan says the "platform draws a distinction between associations of wage earners and the improvement of labor conditions and industrial corporations which act in restraint of trade. The difference between a labor organization and a trust is so apparent that no disinterested person will deny that they should be treated separately. To class the two together and deal with them under one law is bound to do injustice to one or the other. Surely business men can have no vital concern in including labor organizations in anti-trust laws."

Not Assault Upon Courts.

Bryan then takes up the plank providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt and denies it is an assault upon the integrity of the courts.

Bryan takes up the plank which declares that "parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality and that an injunction should not issue in any case in which an injunction would not lie if no industrial dispute were involved," and asks:

"Do the business men insist upon impartiality in judicial proceedings?"

"Do they insist that the mere fact that there is an industrial dispute should justify an injunction?"

He declares that the plank "does not attempt to interfere with the issue of an injunction where other conditions justify it, but it does oppose the issue of an injunction merely for the purpose of bringing into court the discussion of an industrial dispute."

Bryan denies that this plank arouses "a class spirit and constitutes a demand for class favors" and insists "it is a declaration that the writ of injunction should not be used for the purpose of creating a class or favoring a class."

ENDED CAREER WHEN DISGRACE WAS INEVITABLE

John G. Lund, Former Millionaire of Minneapolis, is a Suicide.

HIS TWO BANKS CLOSED

Speculated in Real Estate and Losing Finally Staked All On Wheat.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 7.—John

G. Lund, the former millionaire and democratic politician who shot himself, ended his life to escape the disgrace of arrest for a felony.

The two banks of which Lund was president were closed yesterday, the First National of Belle Plaine being closed by order of the controller of the treasury at Washington upon the advice of National Bank Examiner F. O. Hicks, who reported the institution insolvent. The Robbinsdale State bank of this city was closed for three days by State Bank Examiner Schaefer after a conference with the stockholders, who announced, however, that the doors would reopen Monday.

Girl Employed Involved.

Two girls, employed in Lund's office, are involved by his death. Alberta Logan, his stenographer, it has been discovered, signed mortgage papers for Lund which purport to show that she gave him thousands of dollars in money on mortgages. Lela Race, another stenographer and clerk, did the same thing, according to the plaintiffs in suits pending against Lund in the Hennepin county courts. It is believed that Lund used these spurious mortgages as security for loans.

Staked All on Wheat.

Becoming entangled, Lund staked his all, according to his acquaintances, on wheat. He sold short and on Wednesday the market rose 5 cents. By the noon hour Lund had lost thousands of dollars. By 1 o'clock, when the market was closing at an advance of 5 cents, the one-time millionaire knew that he was doomed to death or disgrace. Five minutes before the market closed he ended his life.

Speculated in Real Estate.

For the last four or five years Lund's speculations in real estate were disastrous. Lately he had been speculating in wheat, in a last effort to cover his numerous shortages. Ten suits on promissory notes covered by alleged fictitious mortgages had been brought against him in the last year. Already the lawyers had been getting their heads together to put him in jail. They had been hounding him day after day for weeks and months. One of them was in his office a moment after his suicide.

Lund was one of the most spectacular careers in the history of the city. His schemes for obtaining money were unique.

Obtained Money on Mortgages.

His principal method, the court records show, was to obtain money on personal notes, secured by worthless mortgages on lands in Minnesota and the Dakotas. His victims live in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and the Dakotas. They are bankers, farmers, widows and working people.

The Lund's figured prominently in society until Mrs. Lund's death a year ago. The palatial home, once the scene of many brilliant society events, has been vacant since she died.
